REBELS MARCH ON TOLEDO

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

WHETHER heredity or environment counts for most in human life is an issue that has divided the minds of men for ages. In the early days of modern science, when the Darwinian theory was first being exploited, our social-science thinkers leaned sharply to the heredity side of the argument. Today an enlightened world puts more trust in environment. The destruction of heredity as an all-important factor, is a mere matter of arithmetic. You yourself in an idle moment have probably worked it out with pencil and paper. I know I have. And this brings me to an excellent essay on the same subject, written by William Feather in the Imperial Type Metal magazine. As he tells it—

Landon's Lead in Digest Poll 3 to 2 on Fourth Report

President Continues to Trail Republican in North and West

CALIFORNIA CLOSE

17,006 for Landon to 16,018 for Roosevelt on West Coast

Landon leads Roosevelt by slightly more than 3 to 2 as returns are announced from twenty-one states in this week's tabulation of The Literary Digest's nation-wide Presidential Poll. Landon is shown receiving 233,972 votes to Roosevelt's 185,495 and Lemke's 19,632 out of a total of 503,509 votes reported.

First returns are tallied from eight states and more returns are announced from the thirteen states included in last week's report.

The early returns from California show Landon leading with 17,006 votes to Roosevelt's 16,018 and Lemke's 1,053.

Scattered early returns from Colorado indicate approximately a 3 to 2

Kickoff at 8 for Smackover Game

Hope Is Favorite to 'Take' Union Co. Oil Town Eleven

Smackover Returning Here With 1935 Team Practically Intact

PASSING EXPECTED

Visitors to Arrive Here on Special Train Just Before Game

The Hope High School football team will take the field here at 8 p. m. Friday as favorites to win over the Smackover High School team. It will be the second meeting between the two teams in the past two years. Last season the Bobcats defeated Smackover at Hope, 20 to 6.

Smackover has practically the same team this season with the exception of Halfback Prince, according to reports from the Union county oil town.

Coach Foy Hammons said at noon that his men were in good shape and predicted a hard fight for both teams.

Hammons said that he would probably start Big John Wilson at left tackle and Ponder at fullback.

Other members of the starting line up will be the same as last week.

Air Battle Likely

An air battle is in prospect for Friday night's game, with King of the Buckaroos on the throwing end for the visitors and Vasco Bright doing the pitching for Hope.

Reports from Smackover say that Coach Allen Berry has spent considerable time this week on air plays. Hammons of Hope has also drilled his men on air maneuvers and plans to give the Buckaroos the same kind of medicine if the Bobcat offense is unable to crash the opening line.

A special train is scheduled to arrive in Hope early Friday night with the team, fans and the 50-piece Buckaroo band. Temporary bleachers to seat 500 persons have been erected on the east side of the field to take care of the visitors.

No official weights of the visiting team have been received in Hope.

Schools Warned Against Salesmen

WPA Toilets Need No Disinfectant, Local Supervisor Declares

Gomer E. Jones, malaria sanitation control supervisor of the district five PPA office here, issued a warning Friday against representatives selling rural schools a formula for disinfectant to be used in government-constructed toilets.

Jones said that salesmen were going about the country selling disinfectants and using the name of the State Board of Health and the U. S. Board of Health in their sales talk.

"There is no one authorized by either of the two health boards to sell this formula to rural schools," Jones said. "Government-constructed toilets are sanitary, complete and need no disinfectants," said Jones.

Latins Emigrate to Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO.—(AP)—From 1920 through 1935, labor ministry figures show, 70 per cent of immigrants came to Brazil from three so-called Latin countries. Italy sent 1,478,943; Portugal, 1,383,878; and Spain, 591,397.

A THOUGHT

The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose. An evil soul, producing holy witness, is like a villain with a smiling cheek; a goodly apple rotten at the heart. —Shakespeare.

Few of Italy's 8,000,000

"We always, in the course of a few hours and by a simple order, can mobilize 8,000,000 men," Premier Mussolini assured Italy in pointing out that the men engaged in maneuvers were but a small part of the force he could put into the field. Tanks and mounted troops are pictured on the move in the war games in Iripina.

Scout Circus Is Outlined to Rotary

Texas Rotarians Visit Local Club to Push Oct. 30-31 Event

Texas Rotarians club sent a substantial delegation of members to the Hope Rotary luncheon Friday noon at Hotel Barlow to solicit 100 per cent support on this side of Red river for the Boy Scout circus to be held at Texarkana October 30-31.

The meeting was addressed by two Texarkanians, the Rev. Walter Armstrong and Scout Executive Bill McMillan, who told the local club that the Scout circus would draw 2,000 boy performers from 13 counties in three states. Among other "stunts" the boys will depict the history of human communication systems, and they will reconstruct a pioneer fort in 12 minutes. The circus will be a two-hour show, comprising 16 events.

Guests also Friday were the co-captains of the Hope Bobcats, Hugh Keuse and K. B. Spears.

The other guests were: N. W. Harrison, L. C. Carter, both of Little Rock, and the following from Texarkana—Pope Briley, Marne Stevens, the Rev. Walter Armstrong, Bob Elliott (assistant Scout executive), Bill McMillan (Scout executive), David Nelson, the Rev. Frank O'Brien, John W. Holman and A. T. Salsbury.

Wife Is Held on Shooting Charge

Police Charge Mrs. Edna Poole for Wounding Husband and Woman

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Police Friday charged Mrs. Edna Poole, 29, with attempting to kill in connection with the shooting on a residential street Thursday night of her husband, Kenneth J. Poole, 29, and his companion, Miss Myrtle Hartsell, 25.

Police, called to the scene immediately, found Mrs. Poole, who is 29, waiting for them with the pistol still in her hand. She was taken to police headquarters and booked for investigation.

Mrs. Poole said that she had suspected her husband of infidelity for some time. Last night she told him she was going to Pine Bluff and left their home, which also is at 1123 West Tenth street. However, she said, she slipped back into the house and heard her husband arranging a trust.

When Poole drove away in his automobile Mrs. Poole followed in her own car, she told police. Poole stopped in front of the Lexington apartments, 1012 West Sixth street, and sounded his horn. Miss Hartsell came out and started to enter the car.

Mrs. Poole had stopped her car on a side street and approached her husband's car in the shadow of a hedge. As the other woman got into Poole's car Mrs. Poole walked up to her and fired.

She told police that her husband immediately got out of the car on the opposite side and started toward her as though he intended to do battle. She shot him also.

Mrs. Poole said she was not acquainted with her husband's companion. "I didn't intend to shoot either one," Mrs. Poole said, "but I guess I lost my mind."

AROARD GOVERNOR LANDON'S SPECIAL TRAIN.—(AP)—The presidential campaign of Governor Alf M. Landon rolled into Wisconsin, home of LaFollette Progressivism, Friday.

Prohibition Law Sought for State

Anti-Saloon League Would Permit Local Option Vote, However

LITTLE ROCK.—Trustees of the Anti-Saloon League of Arkansas, meeting at the office of J. H. Glass, state superintendent, Thursday called on the legislature to re-enact state-wide prohibition, effective next July 1, but to retain local option.

A declaration adopted by the board said: "The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that the liquor traffic has no natural or inherent rights, and, as it is inherently evil, the people have the right, at any time, to abolish it as an enemy of society."

"As our last legislature, without a mandate from the people, has given the liquor traffic a privileged position, we argue that the next legislature should reverse the position by enacting a state-wide law making the sale of all intoxicants illegal."

"Then that the people may have the opportunity to settle the question, we enacted so that, in a thoroughly fair way, the privilege of making and selling any and all kinds of intoxicating beverage may be decided by the local units affected, and so that the burden of securing the license may be upon the people who desire to sell."

The board asked that all receipts from liquor licenses be turned in to the state's general revenue fund, instead of being used for schools or charity.

Mr. Glass was assured of the board's support in an active campaign to develop sentiment along the course outlined.

Public Interest in Football Team Is Greatest in Years

E. F. McFaddin Recalls Uncertain Teamwork of Other Days

80 ATTEND DINNER

Jones, Bearden, Graves, Hammons Address Young Business Men Ass'n.

"There has never been any movement in Hope that has cemented the public so solidly as the Hope High School football team has the past two years," E. F. McFaddin told the Young Business Men's association Thursday night at New Capital Hotel.

"There is more interest in Coach Foy Hammons' football squad than there was when the courthouse was removed from Washington to Hope and then back to Washington several years ago," the speaker declared.

McFaddin then went back and told of the beginning of football in Hope, naming members of several teams, the results of the games, and the equipment used in those days.

Coaching Comes First

"We used to think we could build a good team if we went out and got a bunch of big boys. The coach was given little consideration. Now it's different. The coach is given first consideration—and then the boys."

"I remember once when we thought we had a pretty good team. We went up to Little Rock and got beat exactly 100 to 0. Ever since that game it has been a lesson to me to see Hope pour it on Little Rock in an athletic contest of some kind. I believe that that day is near. We have a great team and we want to continue producing good teams," McFaddin declared.

Concluding his talk he praised Coach Foy Hammons not only as a good football coach "but a man that can instill character and sportsmanship into the youth of today."

Other speakers included Dale Jones, Jim Bearden, Albert Graves and Coach Hammons. The first three speakers told of the fight that the Bobcats put up against the Pine Bluff Zebras last Friday night at Pine Bluff, ending in a scoreless tie.

Each of the speakers praised the team and Coach Hammons. Leo Robins, who acted as toastmaster at the meeting, said that the Hope-Pine Bluff contest was "the most exciting high school game I ever saw."

Coach Foy Hammons took the floor and said:

"Never have I coached a team that has a better spirit than the present Hope High School football team—and that counts a lot in winning games," said Hammons.

Approximately 80 persons attended the meeting Thursday night. Twenty new members joined the association, bringing the total membership to approximately 150.

Officers of the association are: Roy Stephenson, president; Lyman Armstrong, secretary; A. D. Brannon, chairman of finance committee; Sweeney Copeland, treasurer.

Have to Work to Eat, Soviet Slogan

Piece-Work System Allows Better Pay for Skilled Labor

By JOHN LLOYD

Associated Press Foreign Staff MOSCOW.—(P)—Employment is the obligation as well as the right of every able bodied and loyal citizen, the new Soviet constitution holds, but solving the problem of living is not yet always simple.

Average income is increasing, prices are being lowered very gradually, and a number of manual laborers are now in the "wealthier class." But many who have jobs still lack what the world at large would call necessities.

Both men and women are to be guaranteed employment rights under the constitution, which will be officially proclaimed late this fall.

It excludes only the so-called "enemies of the state"—counter-revolutionists, saboteurs and traitors.

The government maintains there is no possibility of an unemployment problem in Russia. On the contrary, it says, there are too few people to fill the available jobs.

Must "Work to Eat"

"Work," says the new constitution, "is the obligation of every citizen capable of working, in accordance with the principle 'he who does not work shall not eat.'"

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(Special)—Kansas is not satisfied with giving the Democrats something to worry about. Now they're turning on gasoline producers with alcohol they make from corn and blend with gasoline and call agrol. Agrol will compete on a quality basis with gasoline, it is claimed, and is due to be taxed in seven mid-western states in the near future.

Lookie like the further Japanese troops get into China the madder they get about it. A Chinaman took a potshot at a Japanese soldier and now its pretty certain Japan will grab off another chunk of real estate which probably is good for nothing except to tax. Business is so good some places steam shovels are working overtime.

Import Mexicans as Cotton Pickers

This Threat Is Made in Labor Shortage in Mississippi Delta

CLARKSDALE, Miss.—(P)—Cotton pickers were "a-pickin'" cotton in Dixie up and down the Mississippi delta Friday but planters said thousands more hands were needed.

Planters of Bolivar county were reported to have pooled their resources to import 3,000 to 4,000 Mexicans to work the fields.

State Bill Needed on Social Security

Arkansas Action Recommended to Obtain U. S. Participation

LITTLE ROCK.—Proposed bills drafted by the State Social Security Commission to cover welfare organization and unemployment compensation were delivered to Governor Futrell Thursday. With them the commission sent a transmittal letter urging that the legislature enact the compensation bill before November 30, which would require a special session.

The governor was informed that Arkansas, under the present federal law, will lose approximately $300,000 in federal tax settlements if the state law is not enacted by that date.

John G. Pipkin, business manager of Little Rock public schools, who was chairman of the honorary commission which drafted the bills, when asked about the possibility of loss to the state, said last night:

"If further inquiry gives Arkansas assurance that it will not lose by waiting for the regular session legislation, then I, and I am sure other members of the commission, would be in favor of deferring action until then."

"Our position is simply that, as matters stand at present, the state would be certain of benefits, provided the federal act is held constitutional, if the legislature passed the requisite measure before November 30."

It seems reasonable to me, and I have previously suggested the opinion, that the congress provision would be willing, if it could do so to allow to Arkansas the money collected, if the 1937 regular session enacted a satisfactory bill, even though no statute is on the books before December 31, 1936, the final date fixed in the federal act.

"In preparing its report, the commission did not consult Governor Futrell and Attorney General Carl E. Bailey. It was not our intention to be placed in the attitude of urging a special session. We desired only to explain the situation as we understand it with respect to unemployment compensation legislation."

Suspect Sabotage in L. & A. Wreck

Freight Derailed at Shreveport—Strike Deadlock Continues

SHREVEPORT, La.—(P)—Louisiana & Arkansas Railway officials and their striking transportation employees continued in a deadlock Friday while officials investigated the derailment Thursday night of a freight train here.

Rail officials laid the derailment to the throwing of a switch by an unidentified person.

Union officials tabulated the votes of shop workers as to whether they should go on a separate strike. They said the L. & A. had denied them the right to bargain collectively.

Flood-Gates Loose Torrent of Water on Madrid Front

Spanish Government Claims March on Capital Is Given Setback

APPROACH TOLEDO

Meanwhile, Spanish Envoy Hints Germany, Italy Before League

By the Associated Press Contending that 10 million cubic yards of water were an overwhelming ally, three forces of the Madrid government struck at a vicious counter-attack Friday on the insurgent forces which are seeking to seize the capital.

A 10-foot wall of water let out of dams west of Madrid engulfed the insurgent encampments on the Talavera-Madrid highway, the government announced, cutting off the advancing Fascists from their base. Men and animals died in the flood.

From the insurgents came the announcement of the capture of government war materials and reports of heavy government casualties in scattered engagements on the Maqueda-Toledo front.

World War in Making GENEVA, Switzerland.—(P)—The Spanish Julio Alvarez told the League of Nations assembly Friday that "the blood-stained soil of Spain already is the battle-field of world war."

The delegates construed his speech as an attack on Germany, Italy and Portugal for allegedly arming the Spanish insurgents.

"The Madrid envoy warned that future wars will not be between states but between 'democracy and oppression.'"

Slavery Charged to Town Marshal

Former Crittenden County Deputy Sheriff Is Indicted by U. S.

EARLE, Ark.—(P)—A federal officer took Paul D. Peacher, city marshal, into custody Friday to answer charges of violating the anti-slavery statutes during the east Arkansas cotton strike last May.

A friend, who declined to be quoted, said Peacher would return with the federal marshal to Jonesboro to make bond.

A federal grand jury indicted Peacher at Little Rock Thursday.

Investigation Closed WASHINGTON.—(P)—Department of Justice officials said Friday that Sam E. Whitaker, special assistant attorney general, would not return to Arkansas to continue investigation of alleged violation of the anti-peonage laws.

Town Marshal Indicted LITTLE ROCK.—Paul D. Peacher, city marshal of Earle and former deputy sheriff of Crittenden county, was indicted by a Federal grand jury here late Thursday on eight counts charging that he has "aided and abetted in causing persons to be held as slaves."

The indictment was described by United States Attorney Fred A. Isgrig and special attorneys of the Department of Justice from Washington as the first ever returned in Arkansas under a post-Civil War statute passed by Congress in 1866 and it was the last of 150 returned by the grand jury in its four-day session.

Mr. Isgrig said that the federal grand jury found "no other violation anywhere in eastern Arkansas of the federal statutes on peonage."

"Thorough investigation by trained men has been made throughout the eastern Arkansas section on numerous occasions," Mr. Isgrig said. "Every rumor, every witness, every possible hint of peonage has been run down and no one could not find an other trace of a law violation."

"We have a statement signed by H. L. Mitchell, secretary of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, saying that he knows of no federal law violations. The Peacher case is the only one we could find."

Peacher is charged with having forcibly taken negroes before Mayor Mitchell, as justice of the peace, and falsely accusing them of vagrancy. The indictment says that each of eight negroes was "wrongfully and illegally sentenced" for 30 days and that as a direct consequence of the charges made by Peacher they were remanded to his "complete control and custody" although no contract for working prisoners existed between Peacher and the county. The negroes, in indictment, were compelled against their will to remain upon and work on premises controlled and operated by Peacher as an individual and in a private capacity, and were held there in "involuntary servitude and as slaves" at hard labor.

The Common Tasks

The common tasks are beautiful if we have eyes to see their shining ministry. The plowman with his share deep in the loam; The carpenter whose skilled hands build a home; The gardener working with reluctant sod; Faithful to his partnership with God—These are the artisans of life and, oh, A woman with her eyes and cheeks aglow, Watching a kettle, tending a scarlet flame; Guarding a little child—there is no name For this great ministry. But eyes are dull That do not see that it is beautiful; That do not see within the common tasks The simple answer to the thing God asks Of any child, a pride within His breast; That at our given work we do our best—Selected.

Mrs. R. H. Reagan of Greenville, Texas, arrived Thursday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Chas. Wingfield and sister, Mrs. Kate Holland.

couples and many beautiful and useful gifts. The lower floor of the home was beautifully decorated with a quantity of gracefully arranged roses and ferns, and contests were held, with Mrs. Louis Broad winning the favor. Following the games and contests, a very delightful ice course was served with cake.

Those hindered from attending the morning service will be served at the evening hour. The Lord's Table will be spread at both morning and evening services, beginning this week.

The International Convention of the Disciples of Christ opens in Kansas City on Monday night, October 12, when Rev. L. N. D. Wells, of Dallas, Texas, delivers his presidential address at the new municipal auditorium. The sessions continue through Sunday, October 18. Hope Disciples should be represented at this great convention.

The pastor will speak Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service on the subject "Sacrifice With a Song." It is a little difficult for natural men to believe that sacrifice means song. We are inclined to believe that sacrifice means a song only in the sense of a wail of pain and grief. Many think that life is a struggle and a conflict in which the strong obtain the spoils and the weak go to the wall. There is much in life that confirms these sorry convictions, but we must never believe that any such condition is the will of God. It is God's will that the strong serve the weak, that sacrifice shall be, not a penalty, but a reward. Sacrifice is a part of worship; it always has been, and always will be. Sacrifice and song are one in the work of the Lord. Worship with us Sunday morning, and hear this message.

The evening sermon, in the service beginning at 7:45 p. m., is on "Jesus Appeal to the Irreligious." It is well worth pondering deeply that Jesus had a strong appeal for a class of

Ex-Kaiser's Secretary Opens Revival Here Sunday Morning

Dr. Otto J. Klink

Dr. Otto J. Klink, former under-secretary to the Ex-Kaiser of Germany, will speak at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, North Main street, Sunday night.

Dr. Klink, who is a nationally known evangelist, recently closed a highly successful campaign in Oklahoma City, speaking nightly to from 1,000 to 1,500 people in a large tent. The Rev. Mr. Klink has had a wide and peculiar experience, having been educated in Germany, graduating from the University of Berlin, and later received an appointment as under-secretary to Kaiser Wilhelm. He speaks five languages, and has traveled around the world.

Shortly after coming to the United States, Mr. Klink became a reporter on a German newspaper in New York City, and was later elected to the presidency of the Anarchistic Society of the Red Mask in New York. He was converted in 1923, and soon afterward entered the ministry as an independent evangelist. One prominent clergyman says of Dr. Klink, "He has one of the most powerful soul gripping messages ever delivered from an American pulpit—a combination of fire and level-headedness—whirlwind oratory, coupled with calm common sense."

Pastor Bert Webb recently made a trip to Oklahoma City to see Dr. Klink, and while there secured his promise for a two-weeks campaign in the local Tabernacle. Dr. Klink will be speaking at the Sunday morning service, and nightly at 7:45.

Review: Christianity In Asia
Text: Acts 14:27

The 12 lessons of the quarter have dealt with the most momentous movement in history, and the one affecting most deeply the life of civilization today. This movement was the spread of Christianity in western Asia. Lessons of the coming quarter will deal with Christianity's spread in Europe.

Following the remarkable outpouring of the Spirit on the day of the Pentecost, success of the new Christian movement aroused persecution, and the Christians were scattered from place to place.

A great center of the new faith was established at Antioch in Syria, a people who are conspicuously absent from our churches today—the irreligious. His fellowship with the irreligious of His day was one of the major scandals of His life. Where have we lost this appeal of Jesus to the irreligious, to those not pious in the regular conventional sense? For, in losing it, the church has suffered an immeasurable loss. We now pick and classify folks, so that we will have to approach only "our kind of folks." Jesus saw in every man and every woman a child of the King. They were all His kind of folks.

The parson says: "Don't stay home for company, bring them along."

Dies Eating Cookies
CALCUTTA.—(AP)—A law student of Dacca Bengal bet a friend he could eat four cookies while swimming under water across a large tank. He dived under and began to eat. A few minutes later his body floated to the surface. He had died of strangulation.

to Damascus, hearing a voice that challenged his persecuting, Saul, to be known afterward as Paul, turned all his passionate enthusiasm toward the service of the new religion, and began the period of preparation that was to make him the great missionary of the new faith to Europe and the regions beyond.

Here was a definite beginning of world missions. As the new religion had quickly become something more than the religion of a sect, with the decision of the council at Jerusalem that Gentile converts were not subject to the demands of the Jewish ritual, so now we see Christianity going beyond the bounds of territory, nationality, and race. It became a means of blessing and salvation to men, regardless of race, color, or political allegiance.

The practical nature and value of these lessons must surely be realized when we observe how far the world of Christendom still lags behind this great conception of the Gospel, its power, and its comprehensiveness. Even those who name the Christian name are still so commonly limited in their vision by nationality, and by considerations of race or color, that the greatest problem before the church even today is this problem of breaking down all barriers, and giving the Gospel free course, that it may be glorified among men.

Denver, Utah State Are Rockies' Pick

New Coach From Mississippi Finds Denver's Prospects Good

By LOUDON KELLY
Associated Press Correspondent
DENVER.—(AP)—The experts are about ready to award the Rocky Mountain football championship—September variety—either to Denver university on one side or to Utah State College on the other.

Judging from such factors as veterans lost by graduation, lettermen and reserves returning, promising stars from the 1935 freshman harvest and coaching experience and wisdom, Denver and the Utah Farmers appear to hold the best answers to current campaign questions.

Utah State, coached for 18 seasons by E. L. (Dick) Romney, tied with Colorado university for the championship last season. Denver never has won an undisputed title since the conference was organized in 1909, although involved in a 3-way deadlock in 1933.

Denver football followers are banking on a new coach, William H. (Navy Bill) Saunders, to give the largest city in the conference its first title with no strings attached.

Certainly Saunders, the drawing Mississippi who once was a lineman at the United States Naval Academy, has enough stellar performers and squad power to mold a contender capable of battling to the final game with any team in the league.

Denver's Big Chance
Probably no team in the conference will find it easier than Denver's Pioneers to replace last season's first-stringers lost by graduation. If Denver is ever to win an outright title, this seems to be the year.

Utah State's losses from its powerful machine of 1935, with the exception of Floyd Rasmussen, also are light.

Returning to the co-champion's fold are 17 lettermen, led by Kent Ryan.

For the first time in a half dozen seasons, Utah and Colorado universities, on paper, at least, look to be definitely out of the contention.

No team can lose 10 or 12 top players and be reasonably expected to finish as strongly the following season. Such is the plight these two traditionally powerful combinations share.

Loose Record-Breaking Back

Five of the men Colorado lost were all-conference stars in 1935, led by Bill (Kay) Lam, the tap-dancing quarterback from Wyoming, who set a modern-ground gaining record for college backs of 1,043 yards last year.

Diplomas waved four all-conference choices off the Utah bench. At both schools reserves are none too strong and the freshman crop was a disappointment.

Utah won five consecutive championships starting in 1928 and tied for honors in 1933. Colorado finished in a tie in 1934, as well as last season.

Colorado State, Colorado College, Wyoming university, Brigham Young and Montana State all give promise of reater strength this season. Colorado Mines, led by Albert (Red) White, youngest coach in the conference, may do a little better.

The conference has booked fewer intersectional games this season than in 1935. Denver will play Drake at Des Moines, Utah will meet Hawaii and Arizona, Colorado will play a return game with Oklahoma, Utah State will clash with Idaho and Colorado State will renew hostilities with New Mexico in the outstanding contests of the inter-conference slate.

Bob Feller, 17, of Cleveland, Fastest Hurler Since Johnson

Here is the start and finish of the delivery that has made Bob Feller the strikeout sensation of the majors. Feller, 17-year-old right-hander of the Cleveland Indians, established an American League record and equaled Dizzy Dean's National League mark by fanning 17 Philadelphia Athletics. The Iowa farm boy struck out 15 St. Louis Browns on August 23.

By HARRY GRAYSON

In more than 50 years of baseball, Connie Mack has seen only one pitcher who was faster than 17-year-old Bob Feller, amazing find of the Indians.

"Feller isn't quite as swift as Walter Johnson," asserts the venerable manager, in discussing the Iowa farm boy's phenomenal feat of establishing a new American League record and equalling Dizzy Dean's major league mark by striking out 17 Athletics in Cleveland the other afternoon.

Mack wouldn't say that such renowned fireball flingers as Rube Waddell, Cy Young, Addie Joss, Chief Bender, Smokey Joe Wood, Bob Grove, and George Earnshaw were any faster than Feller.

Although he has worked only three complete games in the American League, Robert Feller forever will be prominently mentioned when remarkable strikeout performances are discussed.

In his initial effort in organized baseball on August 23, Feller set down 15 Browns to fall just one short of the American League maximum hung up by the immortal Waddell, July 29, 1908. He fanned 10 Browns on Labor Day giving him the astounding total of 42 strikeouts in his first three full contests.

Mack does not subscribe to the belief that Feller is too much of an arm pitcher to last.

"At that, Feller reminds me more of Pink Hawley, who was with the Pittsburgh club in the '90s, than any other pitcher I can recall," explains Mack. "Hawley had tremendous speed, but didn't last long. He pitched a good deal with his arm."

Curve Surprises Mack

"Feller gets considerably more than his arm into his pitches. He is a strong boy with a strong yet easy windup and delivery. He was as strong striking out Pooch Puccinelli, a powerful right-handed hitter, for his history-making strikeout in the ninth inning as he was when he started."

"It was my first look at Feller, and what surprised me more than anything else was his curve—and the way he used it. It required a lot of nerve for him to throw a curved ball to Frank Higgins in the third inning, with the count two and three on that splendid right-handed hitter, and Lovell Dean on second base, after the young man's wildness and inability to hold runners on bases, had given us two runs."

"Feller met the test superbly and struck out Higgins with as fine a hook as you ever saw."

"Feller is just wild enough to be effective, and I have an idea he always will be. He'll learn how to hold runners on the bases. His delivery is a bit too slow right now."

Barring an accident, Mack can't see any reason why Feller can't go on to take his place with the pitching greats.

"Certainly, it is not a mistake to start a 17-year-old pitcher who strikes out 10, 15 and 17 a game," smiles the daddy of baseball strategists. "The only danger is overwork, and no manager, let alone one who knows as much about pitching as Steve O'Neill, would risk injuring such a brilliant prospect."

Waite Hoyt broke in at 18, and National League batters will tell you that he still has plenty at 37. Al Manauaux crashed the National League at a tender age, and struck around for quite a spell. Walter Johnson and others bore down as kids, with no ill effects."

Feller Deadens Ball

Singularly enough, it was against the Athletics that Waddell hung up the American League record of 16 strikeouts, which stood for 28 years. The famous left-hander was with the Browns after having spent the previous six seasons with Philadelphia.

"Waddell's performance at Shibe Park made me wonder why he hadn't set a record that Feller and all the others still would be shooting at," relates Mack. "The Babe developed arm trouble in his last season with the Athletics. He was at his peak while with us."

"Waddell established his record against an experienced club—Harry Davis, Danny Murphy, and that bunch. "However, there is sufficient hitting strength in the Athletics of this season to make Feller's achievement a noteworthy one. He faced no pushovers in Finney, Puccinelli, Moses, Dean, Johnson, and Higgins. Swingers have no chance against him. Our left-handed hitters fared slightly better, if there is room for improvement in a two-hit game. They met the ball."

"Unless I'm mistaken, Feller is one of those great pitchers who come along altogether too many years apart. "Perhaps he'll stir up some of those pitchers who everlastingly complain about the lively ball. He certainly is showing them how to deaden it."

Giants Clinch Pennant in National—Will Play the Yankees

MOSTON, Mass.—(AP)—The New York Giants clinched the National League pennant Thursday, nosing out the Boston Bees, 2 to 1, in a 10-inning pitching thriller in the first game of a deciding double-header.

Their victory made the first "sub-way series" since 1923 a certainty, with the New York Yankees as the American League representatives. The series will open Wednesday in the Giants' Polo Grounds.

Today's win was the Giants' 91st of the season, leaving them with three games to play after the twin bill with the Bees. The best the second place St. Louis Cardinals can accomplish between now and the end of their schedule would still fall short of catching up.

Hal Schumacher accomplished Thursday's win almost single-handed, but a costly error by Bill Urbanski was a big help. Urbanski juggled Travis Jackson's grounder in the 10th and then threw wide past first, enabling Jackson to reach second. Schumacher brought him home with a single.

In the second game, Terry replaced most of his regulars with second-string men and the Bees won, 4 to 0, behind Bill Weir's six-hit pitching.

The first-game victory was the Giants' 51st against 18 losses in the drive that carried them from the second division to the championship between July 15 and Thursday.

The pennant triumph is the second accomplished by the Giants since Terry took over the managership from John McGraw. In 1933 they won the title with 91 victories and then defeated the Washington Senators in the World's Series.

Helping the Giants was the pitching collapse of their most-feared rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, and the hitting slump of the 1935 champion Chicago Cubs.

Texarkana Plays in Prescott Friday

Razorbacks Outweigh the Curly Wolves Average of 15 Pounds Per Man

PRESCOTT, Ark.—(Special)—The Prescott High School Curly Wolves, smarting under a 24-to-0 defeat suffered in the first game of the season last week against Malvern, will attempt to break into the win column against the Texarkana, (Ark.) Razorbacks here Friday night. The game starts at 8 p. m.

The Prescott team will be outweighed about 15 pounds to the man if figures received from Texarkana are correct. Prescott's team will average around 135 pounds to the man, while Texarkana is reported to have a team averaging 152 pounds.

The Wolves came out of the Malvern game last week without any serious injuries. Practically the same team is expected to face Texarkana.

Coach Rayburn Smith has drilled his men hard this week, getting them in better physical shape and pointing out errors that were made in the Malvern game.

The game Friday night will be the second of the season for both eleven.

Last week Texarkana defeated Ashdown High School by a lopsided score while the Wolves were losing to Malvern.

QUAKER LEADER IN AMERICA

WILLIAM PENN, son of a noted English admiral, had been impressed by the peaceful philosophies of the strange religious sect called Quakers, during his young days at Oxford, and so became a Quaker, over his father's protests. When he inherited a crown debt, he accepted a tract of land in the New World in payment, and in 1682 sent over thousands of his Quaker brethren, who had been bitterly persecuted in England. Later, Penn came over and laid out the site of the "City of Brotherly Love." It was not long before Philadelphia became one of the leading cities of America. Because he treated the Indians with honesty and respect, not a Quaker was killed by them during Penn's lifetime. In 1684, Penn returned to England, but when William III became king, he was tried for treason and it was not until 1693 that he was acquitted. In 1699, he returned to Pennsylvania, remained two years, and lived the remainder of his life in England. He died in 1718, at the age of 74.

To Use Tear-Gas on Coal Thieves

Senate Hears Defense Plans of Endangered Anthracite Industry

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A senate committee was told Thursday that Pennsylvania anthracite coal operators, facing a "complete breakdown of government" in that state, had purchased quantities of tear gas to drive what were described as "bootleg miners" out of the fields.

Purchase of $17,000 worth of the sickening gas was testified to by A. S. Alles, vice president of the Lake Erie Chemical Co., who said it was planned to drop 7,500 tubes of the vapor into the mine shafts at night.

Walter Gordon Merritt, lawyer for the Anthracite Institute, said the operators had faced "a complete breakdown of government" when the governor of Pennsylvania "flatly refused" to act to protect the industry. "Alles revealed other secret sales of gas to many industrial companies in all corners of the country in his testimony before the senate committee investigating strike breaking, labor espionage and other interferences with the rights of workers."

A map showing localities where three manufacturers had sold $466,913 worth of gas and equipment in the last three years was placed in evidence.

Lyda Roberti Succeeds Thelma Todd in Patsy Kelly Comedies

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Blond, sensuous Lyda Roberti has tossed away her long false eyelashes and has moved her makeup kit into a slapstick comedy factory. No longer is she going to slink around in black silk and portray the kind of woman no man can resist. She's a comedienne now, and ready for anything—even custard pie ducking contests.

She replaces the late Thelma Todd as Patsy Kelly's partner in those mad comedies turned out by Producer Hal Roach. The combination should be a good one. Lyda, with her thick Polish accent, will portray a dizzy, word-juggling dame buffeted about by tough, wise-cracking Patsy, who has an accent herself—one picked up on New York's East Side.

And does Miss Roberti like this idea of becoming the other half of a comedy team? Oh, my yes! "It eez wonderful," she says with much arm waving. "Seductiv? I am not that Comedie, that eez what I have wanted to play on the screen for three years. Instead, yes, they make me go around vamping. No, I didn't like that."

"Happy, I am that now. I weel show them I am funny. Patsy, she eez wonderful. She gives other people—what you say?—the break. Mr. Roach, he eez wonderful to let me do what I want to do. I weel make him happy, yes. It eez all wonderful. At last I can be funny instead of eye rolling at the men."

Accent the McCoy
Lyda's accent is no mere affectation. She was born in Warsaw, the daughter of Roberti, famous European clown; and she never has tried to lose her nationality. "Many times they tell me to learn the English. But I don't want to. I don't want to. I think better it eez to stay as I am."

Roberti came to the United States, via China, eight years ago, after touring the world with her father as a dancer, circus bareback rider, and tight rope walker. She crashed a Fanchon and Marco vaudeville unit as a chorus girl in San Francisco, toured the country, and wound up on Broadway as one of the comedy stars in "You Said It," a musical. Later she starred in "Roberta," playing the same role Ginger Rogers had in the screen version.

Typed as Siren
Paramount studio heard about her, lured her before the cameras, and then proceeded to type her as a man-killer, instead of as a comedienne. She rolled her eyes and hips through a dozen pictures, including "College Rhythm," "The Kid From Spain," and, more recently, "The Big Broadcast of 1936." Finally Paramount said "Goodbye, glad to have met you." Then Roach, distracted by the loss of Miss Todd, grabbed her to co-star with Kelly.

Lyda lives in a white-walled apartment with a blond cocker spaniel named Herman, a black and white coach dog named Adolph, a gray-haired housekeeper named Coulter, and a black-haired personal maid named Sonia. There used to be a husband, named Bud Ernest, but he doesn't live there any more, and she's getting divorce. They eloped by airplane to Yuma, Ariz., in July, 1935.
